Q: Converting android application to iPhone application I have an android application created in Android Studio. And I have used a webView to load content in it. Now I am going to create an iPhone application. How can I use the same webView to load content in it? And when user clicks on a button, I want to redirect to that same webView, so that I can load the same content. A: You can use the same UIWebView from a iPhone application. // Create a URL Request. NSURLRequest* request = [NSURLRequest requestWithURL:[NSURL URLWithString:@"YOURURL"]]; // Load the request in the webView [webView loadRequest:request]; // But for the URL with "https" there is a better way // NSURL* url = [NSURL URLWithString:[NSString stringWithFormat:@"%s"], @""]; NSURLRequest* request = [NSURLRequest requestWithURL:url]; Just add the iOS class in your project if you didn't do it already. you can also use the obj-c api here Wernicke's encephalopathy and hyperammonemia. Case report. Wernicke encephalopathy is characterized by symptoms of extrapyramidal dysfunction, such as ataxia, athetosis 82157476af
